

President's Message

Hello neighbors!

At a corporate retreat last year one of the questions posed to our group as an icebreaker was, "What was your first job for money?"

Here we were, a group of highly trained professionals at the top of our specialties giving answers like babysitting, mowing lawns, working at Dunkin Donuts, bussing tables, and so forth - all very noble occupations, just hard to imagine for someone currently very strongly associated with just one profession. More than 50 people shared with the other attendees descriptions, often humorous, of their first forays into the job world. Do you remember the first job someone paid YOU to do?

During the exercise it was clear that most people seemed to have a fondness for their first jobs. A few people, however, did say it motivated them to work harder on finding a different career! What I took away was that the overwhelming thing the job gave people was a feeling of usefulness, the sense of teamwork, camaraderie and satisfaction for completing a task and serving others. There appeared to be a feeling of importance tied to the work and of accomplishment when another paycheck was put toward helping to pay for that first car, possibly.

For many of us it's probably hard to imagine a time when life centered around just one job. The truth is that all of us have many different jobs and roles in our lives. Some of these are paid with money and many are not, however, that doesn't mean there is no compensation. The motivations for doing work are as different as there are individuals, and the rewards vary considerably as well.

Your Indian Beach Sapphire Shores board of directors works very hard at balancing the work our neighborhood needs with our other jobs and roles in our busy lives. I will be the first to admit it, sometimes we simply do not have the bandwidth to get everything done that we would like. That's where the rest of you, our dear neighbors, come in! The little bit of work you could do to pick up litter on the street, clean up after your pets, put your waste bins away after pickup day, or even volunteer for a role serving the community in an official capacity will allow us to maintain our status as the best neighborhood in the City of Sarasota!

If you care about the issues affecting our neighborhood; If you care about the appearance of our neighborhood; If you care about things that will make your quality of life better and your property values higher; I've got great news for you - you're hired!

Sincerely,

Henry Bausback, President

Dateline New College

“The more things change, the more they stay the same?” My father, a taller Mack Goode, was one of New College’s first fundraisers around 1970. Then he started the long running “Action Auction” and helped generate major grant funding from national foundations for this brand new school.

About 15 years ago, I wrote a campaign encyclopedia titled, “New College, New Initiatives”.

Collaborating with the administration and foundation, our brochure featured endowment goals for scholarships, research and faculty professorships. Also described were new building needs like a 75 seat black box theater, which happened. Further, there was a $1 million fund for the library that encompassed acquisitions and electronic upgrades. Additionally, six “Multidisciplinary Initiatives” were delineated. Of these six, Gender Studies is on its way out. International Studies still exist, as do Life Sciences, Math and Quantitative Studies, along with the Fine and Performing Arts.

As part of the Life Sciences, Environmental Studies is probably flourishing the most. At the College’s recent clambake scholarship event, a new advanced degree, the Master’s of Marine Mammal Science, was announced. Clambake Co-Chair, a prominent philanthropist, Elizabeth Moore, is supporting this new enterprise as part of the multidisciplinary conservation sciences. Spanning more than 40 years, environmental studies had been administered by Julie Morris and Jono Miller and they were joined by Endowed Professor Heidi Harley years ago. Their intent is to expand the impact and outreach of conservation endeavors – on and off campus.

Now the Director of Environmental Studies, Dr. Harley stated, “The new Master’s Degree will be a world class addition to the college and our location on Sarasota Bay – home to the longest studied wild dolphin society on earth.” Harley herself was attracted by retired professor Gordon Bauer who shares her dedication to marine mammals. And another inducement was that so many faculty live in Indian Beach and Sapphire Shores.

Having grown up in Charleston, South Carolina, Heidi graduated from the University of Colorado with a philosophy degree. Then she earned her Ph.D at the University of Hawaii because “it had a famous dolphin lab.” Having published many articles in professional journals, she is pleased that so many of her students have earned advanced degrees and teach at leading universities. Providing research experiences for her students is another imperative. (<https://sarasotadolphin.org/>)

Several successful projects have taken place with the Lemur Reserve in Myakka City. The founder of the reserve, Penelope Bodry-Sanders, exclaimed, “working with the college is always wonderful. In an Art-Science Workshop, Heidi’s team collaborated with an environmental artist named Ana Flores and produced materials marrying the arts and sciences.” (<https://www.lemurreserve.org/>)

While Environmental Studies strives to meet specific educational challenges, one of the institution’s overall challenges is to reach an endowment goal of 1,200 students. This being a mandate that President Richard Corcoran has accepted, his administration has embarked on an intercollegiate athletics program. Indeed, in terms of incoming students, more than 100 are “student athletes”. Ironically, when my best boss, Robert Hess, was President of Brooklyn College and I ran that College’s foundation, Hess instituted intercollegiate athletics. Lack of student and alumni support caused that college to disband sports within four years.

Nonetheless, here’s hoping that this Newer College can attain its essential enrollment objectives.

Fiddle Leaf Fig

When people move here from colder climates it's a treat for them to see their old "houseplants" growing in yards. We did not have many houseplants in Evanston, Illinois years ago but a favorite was our Fiddle Leaf Fig. It's considered a "rain forest escapee" from Western Africa and a very popular houseplant around the world.

It always had special meaning to me because my grandfather was an Appalachian fiddle maker. He was so popular a maestro came all the way from Russia to buy one. But of course, he called it a violin, not a fiddle.

Indoors, these plants can be kept small and manageable. They take to being "lopped off" every now and then to keep them below the ceiling. Outdoors they become trees with many lush, dark green leaves.

Every single time I see one I smell the sawdust of Grandpa's shop and hear music from his weekly blue grass jam sessions where nothing stronger than Pepsi was served.

Neighborhood News

Do you know Jack? Jack Wooster that is! Thank you for completing this long-overdue project.

Jack performed an amazing face lift on our sign on Myrtle, next to Walgreens.

Neighborhood Watch News

There has been a significant decrease in both residential and vehicle burglaries in our Indian Beach Sapphire Shores neighborhood so far this year (see crime report statistics). Perhaps this encouraging news is partly due to more doors being locked and valuables not being left in plain view of opportunistic criminals. Remember, don't be an easy target.

With this in mind, the much welcomed reductions in reported crime within IBSS can very likely be attributed to the numerous calls made by our concerned, astute residents to the police to report suspicious persons, vehicles and incidents in our area. This immediate action taken by our neighbors along with quick, responsive law enforcement helps to prevent crime, deter criminals and keep families safe in our truly unique, wonderful neighborhood.

*Neighborhood statistics do not include crimes occurring at Tamiami Trail addresses.

*Incidents or vandalism, trespass, theft from fruit trees, suspicious persons and activity and suspected illicit situations have also been reported.

Thank you neighbors, and as always;

See It, Hear It, Report It!

Land Use Committee - LUC

Just a few notes about what your Land Use Committee has been up to...a few items that impact Indian Beach/Sapphire Shores.

- Oakwood Apartments will go before the Planning Board on June 12th. This development is a 33% addition to the apartments currently there. This is the development across Tamiami, behind Sunnyside Cafe. You can contact Noah Fossick (Dev. Review Senior Planner) 941-263-6548 or Noah.Fossick@sarasotafl.gov Refer to: 23-SP-16.

- City PAC announced an endorsement of Ron Kashden who is running for our district City Commission seat against Liz Alpert. Here is an article about why:

<https://mailchi.mp/citypac-srq.org/citypac-reveals-endorsements-in-sarasota-city-commissioner-race>

Here is the website for Ron:

<https://ron4residents.com/>

We couldn't find one for Liz, but Google her name and there is plenty of info.

- Saving the best for last, IBSSA won a compromise on a public use easement vacation application. The land to the south of Corwood at the intersection with Bay Shore Rd. (between Corwood and the wrought iron fence) will stay categorized as public use. This means NO development there. We are grateful to the land owners for backing off a full one-half of their easement vacation filing after talking with us. IBSSA spoke at both the Planning Board meeting and the City Commissioner meeting to bring this home. Gotta keep our beloved Greenspaces GREEN! Kevin Spence, LUC

Real Estate Summary

This most recent Real Estate grid shows 29 Active Listings compared to 18 last year, at this time.

There are 4 Pending Sales compared to 7 last year, at this time. Since March 1st we've had 23 Closed Sales compared to 16 last year, at this time.

We saw some Buyer hesitation early in the year as if waiting for a "correction" in prices. This led to a "quiet" February & March, but things turned and we ended up having a strong spring market. 23 Sales in 3 months is a lot for our neighborhood and values continue to climb, albeit at a slower rate these past two years. The data shows no seismic shifts. Inventory remains low which keeps prices resilient. We continue to be the most diverse market on the entire Gulf Coast (sales between $265,000 and $9,500,000). The most obvious changes are the value of new construction along our bayfront and Bay Shore Road. Nothing attracts attention like a $16,500,000 listing. These prices put us on global radar screens.

But rather than get lost down the "rabbit hole" of data I would rather share a few thoughts from recurring conversations I've had with you and other neighbors so far in 2024.

- If Buyers cannot negotiate an advantageous price, they will expect QUALITY.
- There are more "signs in the ground" than there are Active Listings. Not every General Contractor Architect sign is a Listing. Some are owner/occupant projects and others are 2 years from potential occupancy.
- Our region has gone from 50% ALL CASH sales to 75% ALL CASH sales.
- For those wanting financing, this requires more work than ever as we navigate complex lender criteria and insurance challenges.
- When "aspirational" List Prices are reduced, Artificial Intelligence (Zillow, Redfin) interprets this as "Buyer's Market". But this is contrary to year over year value increases. Just ask our County Property Appraiser.
- Data and the media contribute little value when trying to understand our small slice of paradise; Indian Beach – Sapphire Shores. It is said "All Real Estate is Local".

- In this era of information overload, there is business to take care of. We still have all the D's which drive most Real Estate transactions:
Diamonds, Diapers, Divorce, Downsize, Death

When I shared this old axiom with a savvy neighbor, he said without hesitation, don't forget...Debt, Desire and Distress. You may have more to add.

Currently, opportunities in our neighborhood contain every single one of the D's.
